To Invest in Our Teachers

THE RED DOOR

There is a red door on Union Park Street in Boston's South End. It is a door that opens each day with unlimited opportunity, inspiration and endless possibilities. Here, students and teachers connect and ideas take shape. Dreams are formed and a dynamic education is made accessible to all who call Cathedral home. Here, your investment can continue opening doors for students for generations to come.

Investing In Faculty & Staff

- Attract and retain the best teachers with more competitive salaries and continuous professional development
- Increase enrollment to 350 students and fund additional teachers to fully leverage Cathedral's ability to serve more students
- Endow an instructional technology role to enhance the Applied Learning Center's capabilities, tools and methods to be utilized for engineering, robotics, coding and innovation and to ensure that students are taught using the latest advances in technology
- Expand music and arts programs to include offerings such as a student choir, music production, performing arts and an endowed faculty position
- Enhance our campus ministry and create additional social justice programs to provide transformational retreats and service opportunities for all students, and to endow a full-time campus minister position

"Endearing, unlimited, accepted... these are the words I'd choose to describe the atmosphere I encountered daily at Cathedral High School. I've been so overwhelmed by the support here, Cathedral has been like a second home to me. CHS has a unique ability to open up a pathway of positive, endless possibilities to help each student craft and take an active role in fulfilling their own vision of future success. Encouraged by sensational faculty members who are engaging, inspiring and welcoming, we thrive academically because we know they are always there to support us. We leave CHS feeling confident and prepared for the outside world. Everyday, I feel safe, surrounded by love, included and accepted on a diverse campus that feels like home. Cathedral is a small school that focuses on the success and social-emotional wellbeing of its students in a big way. I am thankful for the experience I have been afforded at CHS. There is truly no other school I'd choose to attend if granted the opportunity to restart."
